Trojan '64

Cumberland,
Maryland

Vol. 2

This 1964 Trojan is dedicated by us, the students of Allegany Community College, to the City of Cumberland. To the citizens from all walks of life who, either knowingly or unknowingly, provide a home for this college. Cumberland has provided most of our student body, some of the faculty and the campus. We, the students, hope to become intelligent and active citizens as we know you wish us to become.

— Are Now Becoming

Our administration and faculty advise and direct us in our quest for knowledge. They light the way to the future by making indifferent minds inquisitive and interested minds creative.

Administration and Faculty

The activities of our year mark a significant phase of our education. The friends we have made, the fun are all a part of the atmosphere which makes our school and student life.

Student Life

Organizations are perhaps one of the most important phases of our school year. They stimulate interest in many activities and display a notable record of service.

Organizations

CONTENTS

Citizenship for the future depends on qualities developed today. Willingness to give more than required, building self-reliance and developing determination are exemplified by the efforts of our athletes.

Athletics

Every girl at ACC possesses some facet of beauty, whether it be reflected intellectually, spiritually or physically. The combination of these delineate our elite and exemplify beauty and grace.

Elite

Classes at ACC form the nucleus of all activities in the realms of intellectual learning and fellowship with others. They stimulate interest and the desire to learn as they provide a foundation for the future.

ADMINISTRATION

AND FACULTY

Our administration and faculty channel our boundless energy toward higher goals and mold potential ideas into active thought. They provide the catalyst that instigates our hunger for knowledge and our will to obtain it. As students we are fortunate in the fine leadership we receive from the adults who teach, advise and counsel us.

STUDENT

LIFE

As we pause to reminisce, we find many activities that make our school year memorable. Students rallied to support school activities and prove ACC not lacking in awareness of the intangible spirit that holds our school together. Yet, more than memories for tomorrow, we have attained knowledge for the challenges of the future.

Cheerleaders Captivate Crowds

Carol Aldridge, Captain

Cheerleaders perform at a basketball game. They add spirit and color as they cheer their team on to victory.

Sherry Weber

Training to become a cheerleader takes hours of steady practice after classes and on weekends. Through the year, ACC's cheerleaders have led the student body in cheers and have promoted school spirit at all of the sports events. The girls also attended many of the out of town games.

Odyssey Inaugurated in '63

1963 marked the first year for the college newspaper. The Odyssey helped to knit together the various areas of the college as the student body opened the pages of the tabloid once a month. A member of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, the Odyssey entered the annual newspaper contest held each spring. Jo Ann Homburg also sponsors the paper.

The staff prepares for the next deadline.

ACC's yearbook began its most auspicious year as plans were made for the first color ever used in the college annual. College size pages were added and greater coverage was given school events. The staff sponsored the Annual Belle and Beau election and the first holiday basketball tournament. All of the changes are due to the enthusiasm of the staff and their belief in the future of Allegany Community College. Jo Ann Homburg serves as faculty sponsor.

MAIC Convention Presents Delegates With Hootenanny, Luncheon and Dance

Over one hundred students attended the convention of council delegates at Allegany Community College in January of 1964. Originally the meeting had been scheduled for November 22, but due to the assassination of President Kennedy, was postponed until January. The delegates from many junior colleges in Maryland were treated to a Hootenanny and dance in addition to the regular meetings.

David Nuzum, Director of Student Affairs at Potomac State College was guest speaker at the morning meeting for the delegates. ACC council members were in charge of all arrangements for the convocation. Another meeting was planned for later in the spring.

ORGANIZATIONS

Looking toward future careers while increasing their knowledge and improving themselves today, students find an outlet for their energies in the organizations that form the core of extracurricular activities at ACC. In like manner the members of all organizations exemplify that same desire to build in themselves qualities of leadership and citizenship while increasing their ability to aid others.

ACC Point Total Tops For Single Game On Record

CUMBERLAND, Md. (AP)—Allegany Community College's defense fell apart in the second half Saturday night, but it eked out a 210-23 basketball victory over Baltimore Institute.

Baltimore Institute is a prep school for students ranging from grade to post-high school level.

The 210 points is the highest listed for a single game by one team in college records, but the NCAA Service Bureau in New York said it wouldn't be recognized since four-year-schools were not involved.

SPORTS

Hours of hard work are spent in preparation for these few minutes of sports participation. Yet, much is gained by the athletes beyond physical excellence. Through these experiences, young men learn the value of team effort while assuming individual responsibility, qualities which will help fit them for their roles as adults.

Basketball Season Ends With Squad Annexing 18-3 Record

Co-Captains, Dick Sterne and Gary Shook pause before a game.

ACC's Trojans compiled a surprising record of 18-3 for their third year in operation as a junior college. Although they were knocked out of the Tri-State Junior College Tournament in Dover, Delaware, in their first game by a score of 65-64, it was a successful overall season. Their record was good enough to earn them a third place in the conference for the basketball season.

ACC Loses 65-66 in First Round of Dover Tourney

BILL DEAN, Forward

Cheerleaders and Basketball Squad Make Explosive '63-'64 Season

ACC lost only one game on their home court this season when they bowed to Montgomery Junior College. Their second loss was at the hands of the Potomac State Cata-mounts by a close score. Potomac State was avenging a previous season loss to the Trojans. The previous game went into overtime and ACC won 105-101.

The Trojans upset the Tri-State Conference leaders from Wesley College, Dover, Delaware. In defeating Wesley, ACC broke their 15 game winning streak.

In post season play, the Trojans lost to Prince George's Community College of Suitland, Maryland, in the opening round game 65-64. The Tri-State Junior College Tournament was held at Wesley College, Dover, Delaware.

The Best All Around Player will be named later in the year.

ACC's cheerleaders added greatly to the spirit displayed by the college during basketball season as they performed at all home games. They also attended many of the away games. Many hours of practice go into the cheers displayed by the group.

The cheerleaders perform for the half-time activities.

Trojans Topple Scoring Records in Triumphant 210-23 Game

New pages were added to the record book when the ACC Trojans played Baltimore Institute on Saturday, February 8, 1964. Running up, perhaps, an all time area scoring record, the team defeated Baltimore 210-23.

Scoring points on an average of 5.2 per minute, the Trojans were ahead 90-8 at half-time. The squad established a new record for the biggest point total in a half and biggest half-time lead.

The Trojans also hit for a record setting total of 92 field goals. In the second half the team rang up a total of 120 points. The shooting percentage for ACC was 72.3.

Area and national records topple on February 8, 1964.

Bill Dean was high man in this game for the Trojans as he broke the school scoring record by pouring in 40 points. Other ACC scoring included: Larry Snyder, 23, Jan Withrow, 30, Jim Wilt, 19, Jim Smith, 21, Gary Shook, 32, Bowman, 17, and Charles Cantone, 28.

With four minutes left in the game the Trojans increased their lead 160-16 to 210-23.

The Trojans earn themselves a place in the record books.

Intramurals, Holiday Tournament Add Zest to Winter Sports Scene

December of 1963 marked the introduction of the first Holiday Basketball Tournament held at Allegany Community College. The tournament was sponsored by the journalism department at the college. Director of the Tournament was Dave Burke, sports editor for the school paper.

Swimming facilities at the YMCA were available to the ACC college students. Several times first semester the pool at the Y was available free of charge to the student body. The intramural program continued throughout the winter months with table tennis, checkers and bridge.

Basketball Indoor Football and Hearts Liven School Days

Intramurals form an important part of the college sports program. This participation gives the student an opportunity to perform as well as keep himself physically fit. January and February brought bowling and volleyball on the intramural program.

Participation in Intramural Program Builds Competition

Winners of the first semester intramural program were the Spartans eking out a six to two victory over the Parisiens in intramural football. Both teams had compiled a five and one record.

In handball, two contenders, Gus Bell and Ron Yutzy, won all their games. There were three games each of fifteen points. The player winning two in a row or just two of the three was the winner.

Ron Miller won the Hearts tournament. He easily beat the closest man by eighty points. In second place was Dave Burke. He was followed by Bill Stakem and in last place Ron Yutzy.

ELITE

True beauty is a physical attractiveness surrounded by the glow of an inward sincerity and grace. It is an inherent quality complimented by scholastic ability, social poise and depth of character. The elite of ACC exemplify these qualities and fulfill the expectations of the students who elect them. The honor of being chosen to represent the ideals of perfection is given to these few, the elite.

The School Is People

A college is many things. It is made up partly of buildings and is greatly influenced by its location. But most of all, a college is its people — the people who support it with their loyal spirit and achievements, its students, faculty, administration, employees and benefactors.

Here are the faces of some of those people who make Allegany Community College a complete and living institution. They are the people who guide the growth and direction of our school in its academic, athletic and fine arts achievements, and help, each in his own way, to raise ACC's stature in the world of learning.
