FOREWORD

Since its founding in 1961, Allegany Community College has grown to be a productive learning ground rather than just another school. It has grown in size and quality, intellectually and emotionally. The students who attend ACC come for that education which stresses and encourages in them the same growth our college itself has experienced.

Even as ACC continues its growth, so will we continue although we have concluded our years of formal schooling. We hope we will stress and encourage in others the intellectual and emotional growth we have experienced and which are essential to learning.

Mr. Weed,

This year has been a difficult one for you. Not only did you have the cares of handling the finances of a public institution on your shoulders, but you also coped with the difficulties of an expanding student body within static facilities. Finally, you have had to look ahead to the physical and financial growth of the coming years. Yet you found time to counsel and support us as we prepared this book. We hope it will always be a memento of our thanks and appreciation.
THE HEAVY LADEN

ADMINISTRATION
Theodore Roosevelt has a bit of philosophy that we might well use as a rule and guide in our lives. "We do not admire the man of timid peace. We admire the man who embodies victorious effort; the man who never wrongs his neighbor; who is prompt to help a friend; but who has those virile qualities necessary to win in the stern strife of actual life. It is hard to fail; but it is worse never to have tried to succeed. In this life we get nothing save by effort. Freedom from effort in the present merely means that there has been stored up effort in the past. A man can be freed from the necessity of work only by the fact that he or his fathers before him have worked to good purpose. If the freedom thus purchased is used right, and the man still does actual work, though of a different kind, whether as a writer or a general, whether in the field of politics or in the field of exploration and adventure, he shows he deserves his good fortune. But if he treats this period of freedom from the need of actual labor as a period not of preparation but of mere enjoyment, he shows that he is simply a cumberer on the earth's surface; and he surely unfit himself to hold his own with his fellows if the need to do should arise again. A mere life of ease is not in the end a satisfactory life, and above all it is a life which ultimately unfit those who follow it for serious work in the world."—Theodore Roosevelt, "The Strenuous Life."

DR. ROBERT S. ZIMMER, President
Allegany Community College

A philosopher has told us that growth is the only evidence of life, and, it seems to me, that this is true. Some people stop growing in their teens; others are still growing in their nineties. It all depends on the individual. By growth, we mean, of course, much more than just increase in physical size. If we hope to continue growing, we must always keep our vision on distant and ever-receding horizons; we must be willing to explore new avenues of discovery, to climb toward new peaks of aspiration, to open new doors of opportunity, to seek new worlds to conquer, and new loads to lift. We must not shrink from the new, the untried, the unknown, nor abhor that which we do not understand. We should believe deeply in many things, but not so tenaciously that we cannot change when change is necessary because of new discoveries or revelations.

We should look always to the rising, not the setting sun; to the new day, the new challenge, the new opportunity, the new hope. We must be friendly, tolerant, understanding, and sympathetic; ever mindful of the "other fellow" and respectful of his rights and privileges.

We hope that, as students of Allegany Community College, you have experienced this phenomenon of growth—this process of education—and that we have equipped you to continue it for all the rest of your lives. We trust that, in growing, you will never cease to marvel at, to query, and to be humbled by this "big, wide, wonderful world we live in." And we hope, too, that you will never find the answers to all of your questions.

It is with sincere appreciation that we, the yearbook staff, extend special recognition to the Circle K Club. Without this organization, the students of Allegany Community College could not enjoy the juke box in the lounge. They maintain a lost and found department within our school. The club also had a book exchange. They also served the community by selling fruit cakes for the Kiwanis Club to benefit underprivileged children. The Circle K strives to serve the college and the community cheerfully and humbly, while receiving little recognition. We would like to amend this situation by saying, "Thanks fellows, you are doing a mighty fine job attaining your goals."

Quintin Griffey and Cathy Black enjoy the juke box—"Swing it Griff."

Margaret Weed was chosen as her attendant.

CLASSES

Chemistry is a very demanding subject: here lies the secrets of the inner reactions of life.

English stimulates many fields among these is the appreciation of music.
Not only do the students of Allegany Community College support the team, but the faculty is a cheerleading squad itself. The students and faculty have been behind the team all the way. Knowing that the team had this support, they were able to win many games and build-up the reputation of the school. Faculty, we thank-you for a job well done!

A time of solemn serenity—a time showing sacrifice, work, and a goal attained. It is graduation! This handshake affirms peace between the people of a country and countries among the world. This peace is achieved through the auspices of a good foundation in education. A diploma given and a life dedicated to the cause of educating young minds and guiding their footsteps. Since 1961 the graduation ceremony has increased in quantity and quality. Allegany Community College has created the mood so students desire a continuation in the field of education. The students of ACC have the advantage of an enriching faculty ready to defend and direct us if we only accept this necessary guidance.
