FERPA stands for the Family Educational Rights & Privacy Act; it is federal law enforced by the Department of Education which requires institutions of higher learning to do certain things and forbids other things. Non-compliance with FERPA jeopardizes a college’s financial aid funding and exposes the institution and the individual to liability if the student whose rights are violated sues. Allegany College of Maryland has a F.E.R.P.A. policy (see the Student Handbook); we fully comply with federal law. Generally, a student must sign a release* before information can be shared – even with a parent.

Exception: information may be shared among College officials.
Exception: information may be released in an emergency.
Exception: information may be released to law enforcement.
Exception: information may be released to a parent who claims the student on his/her income taxes.
Exception: directory information may be shared with any person

Note that this release is permitted but not required; there are often good reasons for not releasing information such as the student’s safety, a pending investigation, the inclusion of other students’ information, and developmental goals for the student (e.g., independence, responsibility). Read the entire policy and definitions for more information. Director information includes student name, address, whether the student is or is not registered, full time/part time status, and field of study.

*A standard release form may be obtained in the Office of Student & Legal Affairs.

It is the student’s decision whether to sign the release, and it must be signed in front of a College official or a notary. Students have the right to see their records.
